ABOUT ME

Self-taught web programmer with over two years of experience learning and developing web applications using technologies such as React, Next.js, TypeScript, and Supabase. Passionate about technology, I strive to constantly learn and improve. I'm currently looking for opportunities in the programming field where I can apply my knowledge and continue developing professionally.

FEATURED PROJECTS

Development of a Delivery App

I developed a Rappi-like delivery app that includes modules for users, kitchens, and delivery drivers. I implemented real-time databases with Supabase and a frontend with React and Next.js.

EDUCATION

As an independent programmer, I've learned from great programmers through their communities and the official documentation for libraries like React, Next.js, and Supabase. This approach has allowed me to develop practical skills that I can apply to high-impact personal projects.
